

Professional Development Support for Buchtel College of Arts and Sciences Part-Time Faculty

To encourage research, teaching and learning in our academic units, the Dean's Office will allocate funds to support part-time faculty professional development. Part-time colleagues who are presenting their own research or creative activity at a professional conference or are listed in the program as participating in a conference on teaching and learning may request financial support.

Awards of up to $500 per part-time faculty colleague will be made and limited to one request per academic year. Interested colleagues can submit request for assistance by completing a one-page request form at <https://forms.office.com/r/sqk8LY91AL> and sending to Rich Londraville, Associate Dean for Faculty Support (rlondra@uakron.edu). An applicant's rationale should explain in no more than one page the role of the professional conference within their discipline and the nature of their participation, the ways they see participation enhancing their future research productivity, teaching and learning activities, and a brief budget noting how the requested funds will be expended.
