A contentious election season has highlighted divisions in our nation. The Thanksgiving holiday approaches, but divisiveness around the dinner table is all too common because of our political polarization. Please join us after the election, but before Thanksgiving, for a discussion about practicing civility in our politics and at our holiday gatherings.

Ted Wetzel, a self described “regular guy” collaborated with 18 other “regular” Americans, on a message of hope to ALL Americans: (1) We are not doomed (2) We can understand our divided America, (3) We can choose action from among 5 grassroots areas - that almost no one knows about.

The resulting book, in plain language, travels from the 30,000 foot view to the family dinner table. Ted Wetzel will be joined by Dr. John C Green, a recognized expert on civility.
