Statement of Purpose

This issue of The University of Akron English Department Course Bulletin reflects the efforts on the part of the Department faculty to enrich the Department curriculum.

In addition to courses in Shakespeare, English literature, American literature, and world literature, a wide range of writing and linguistics courses are offered for undergraduate and graduate students.

Prospective students will find upcoming courses described by the professors who will teach them. These descriptions provide the student with a clearer outline of course content and requirements than can be found in either The University of Akron's General Bulletin or the class schedule bulletin which is issued by the University.

Courses are arranged in this Course Bulletin in numerical order. Courses which satisfy the Shakespeare, linguistics, and world/multicultural literature requirements, as well as the minor requirements, are identified in the course descriptions.

The English faculty hopes this bulletin will be helpful to counselors and students in planning the best possible selection of major courses and electives.

277: INTRO TO POETRY WRITING

In this course we will study the craft of poetry in a supportive environment, with a strong focus on student work. Class members will learn a variety of literary terms and techniques, complete a series of brief craft exercises, and receive helpful feedback during workshop of peer writing. Students with all levels of poetry experience, including beginners, are welcome in this class. Satisfies the Minor in Creative Writing requirement.

279: INTRO TO SCRIPTWRITING

A course in developing the visual imagination. Craft scenes, create characters, write dialogue, construct plot arcs, and learn screenplay formatting. Class will be a small, informal group responding to professional and student-created scripts. Course is 100% online asynchronous. Satisfies the Minor in Creative Writing requirement.

341: AMERICAN LITERATURE I

Historical survey of major and minor American writers to 1865. Satisfies the English major requirement.

362: WORLD LITERATURES

This course explores literatures of the non-western world through representative works. Satisfies the English major World/Multicultural Literature requirement and the World Literature requirement for Education majors. Also fulfills the Tier 3 Global Perspectives requirement for the General Education Program.

EACH COURSE LISTED IS THREE (3) CREDIT HOURS.
DESCRIPTIONS ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE.

367: RHETORIC OF GOD

Examines the rhetorical attempts of poets, mystics, philosophers, saints, and sinners to represent the “unrepresentable” in language. We will read passages from American Transcendentalism, Buddhism, Christianity, the Gnostic gospels, Greek rhetoric, Hinduism, Islam, Judaism, Metaphysical poetry, Taoism, and other sources to ponder whether the Divine can be captured in language. We will also consider works that question language's ability to point to, carry, or reference the transcendent. Central to our examination will be a consideration of the nature of language, the purpose of rhetoric, and the possibility of transcending the self. No background in rhetorical theory is needed. Course is 100% online asynchronous. Satisfies general education's Global Perspectives requirement, Global Studies' Mindset Course requirement and Human Origins or Global Human Origins elective, and the English major World/Multicultural Literature requirement.

371: INTRODUCTION TO LINGUISTICS

This course is an undergraduate level introductory course in the study of language and language use with a focus on the linguistic structure of the English language. It includes a wide range of topics that are considered essential for the study of human language in general as well as to the study of the English language and literature, including the structure of language and language use. Fundamental concepts in the core of linguistics, including morphology, syntax, semantics, phonetics, phonology, and pragmatics as well as in other fields of linguistics, such as sociolinguistics and/or historical linguistics, are covered in lectures and structured linguistic exercises. Students are expected to apply the linguistic knowledge and analytic tools learned in this class to analyze language as it is used in their daily and/or professional life. This course is one of the required courses for the Undergraduate TESL Certificate and the Undergraduate Certificate in Linguistic Studies.

378: ADVANCED FICTION WRITING

This course offers advanced study and practice in the craft of fiction through short writing exercises, workshop of draft pages, and a brief essay reflecting on students' individual writing processes. Students will submit a final portfolio of original fiction that has been workshopped, revised, formatted, and copyedited. Open to students who have completed ENGL 278 Intro to Fiction Writing and others with permission (email Dr. Biddinger at marybid@uakron.edu to request). Satisfies the Minor in Creative Writing requirement.

389: WESTERNS THROUGH FILM AND LITERATURE

Students will study the Western genre as it developed in the 20th century on through the 21st century. We will examine the conventions of Western films and look at the genre's impact on popular culture. Students can expect to view classic movies with stars such as John Wayne, Clint Eastwood, and Joel McCrea, but we will also spend time on important films that bucked convention and that led to major changes in the genre in the late 20th and early 21st centuries. The selected films will be supplemented with short Western novels, as well as episodes from popular television programs. Satisfies an elective for the Popular Literature and Film Minor.

450/550: MODERN AMERICAN FICTION

A contextualized study of American Modernist literature, viewed from a culture studies perspective that includes a focus on women writers and on mutual influences between film and fiction. Authors studied include Gertrude Stein, Willa Cather, Katherine Anne Porter, Richard Wright, Nella Larsen, Sherwood Anderson, Ernest Hemingway, F. Scott Fitzgerald. Films by Sergei Eisenstein and Charlie Chaplin.

453/553: AMERICAN WOMEN POETS

In this course we will study and write about the work of selected poets. We'll start with Emily Dickinson and Gertrude Stein and move into a series of newer collections. Satisfies the English major distribution requirement in world/multicultural literature.

457/557: WRITERS ON WRITING

This is a class about the writing life, as portrayed through the work of people whose lives are about writing. Throughout the semester, we will explore essays and books by writers describing the practical and philosophical nature of their work. We will discuss the features of creativity, techniques of the craft, the interaction of life and art, the present and future of literature, the publishing process, and other topics of relevance to active writers and readers. We will also practice our own creative and critical writing. Readings will include works by Anne Lamott, Stephen King, Michael Chabon, Joan Didion, and others. Graduate students will prepare and present a biography of the creative life of a writer of their choosing.

EACH COURSE LISTED IS THREE (3) CREDIT HOURS.
DESCRIPTIONS ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE.

478/578: GRAMMATICAL STRUCTURES OF MODERN ENGLISH

This course surveys sentence types in English and the component elements of the English sentence. The sentence will be viewed on its own but also as part of larger rhetorical units. In particular, it explores the grammatical structure and properties of modern English in the context of academic language development and beyond. Students are expected to apply the linguistic knowledge and analytic tools learned in this class to analyze content texts and to create teaching strategies for academic language instruction at various levels. This course is required for the Undergraduate and Graduate Certificate in TESL and meets the requirements of the Undergraduate Certificate in Linguistic Studies.

489/589: UNCLASS: WRITING FOR THE PUBLIC HUMANITIES

Museums serve as important places for teaching people about Indigenous communities but the stories told in their exhibits often support old, colonial views. Decolonizing museum stories means changing the usual ways of telling them to prioritize Indigenous viewpoints, stories, histories, cultures, and voices. This [Un]class encourages students to help rewrite a presentation about Indigenous culture. The goal is to create an [Un]exhibit featuring modern artwork from the Oak Native American Ethnographic Collection at the University of Akron's Institute for Human Science and Culture.

615: SHAKESPEAREAN DRAMA

This fully online course's purpose is to help students expand their familiarity with Shakespearean works and interpretive methods used to understand them. The class demands graduate-level engagement with the plays and scholarship while paying particular attention to the ways that Shakespeare's works are represented in the culture at large. This course offers concentrated study of several Shakespearean plays with emphasis on historical, critical and dramatic documents pertinent to development of Shakespeare's art.

689: NEOMFA CRAFT & THEORY OF CREATIVE NONFICTION

When her husband John Gregory Dunne collapsed suddenly and died, Joan Didion's first instinct was to write. Life changes in the instant. / The ordinary instant, she began, using her art to process the blindside of loss. Her 2005 memoir The Year of Magical Thinking has become a touchstone for griever and writers alike, a modern expression of a timeless form: the elegy. In this course, we'll read and analyze essays and memoirs by contemporary authors who have used their craft to bring order, beauty, and insight to the chaos of loss. Readings (subject to change) will include Didion's memoir, Edwidge Danticat's The Art of Death, Hua Hsu's Stay True, Helen Macdonald's H is for Hawk, Sloane Crosley's Grief is for People, and Roz Chast's Can't We Talk about Something More Pleasant? Writers in the seminar will produce a critical essay and an original work of creative nonfiction. This course is only open to students in the NEOMFA program.

689: NEOMFA INTERNSHIP

The NEOMFA internship seminar is focused on developing skills, knowledge, resources, and hands-on experience for your professional and artistic life beyond the MFA. Emphasis will be on careers in writing, teaching, publishing, and arts organizations. Students will complete 120 hours in an internship position by the end of the semester. Those hours can be partially or fully completed prior to taking the seminar. Students should arrange for their specific internship in advance of the semester. If assistance is required, students should reach out to their gateway instructors/advisors and the course instructor for suggestions. An internship arrangement should be formalized before the start of the semester. The seminar will meet four times, once per month. This course is only open to students in the NEOMFA program.

The BA in English (330000BA)

Our course of study of literature, language, rhetoric, and creative writing fosters the development of critical thinking, skilled communication, appreciation of cultural contexts, informed citizenship, and knowledge of the various literary texts representing human thought and inquiry through the centuries.

Students majoring in English studies go on to become successful professionals in their chosen fields. Graduates have taken the department's reputation into the world outside the campus gates and hold careers ranging from positions in successful law practices, to jobs as published authors, technical writers, and journalists.

The Department of English urges all English majors to meet with the English Department Advisor at least once a year to discuss their progress toward the degree.

Please visit The University of Akron's Undergraduate Bulletin page for the English BA for the current degree requirements.

BA/MA Accelerated Degree Pathway (ADP)

You can earn your bachelor's and master's in less time and at a significant savings.

The Accelerated Degree Pathway (ADP) program is a 5-year bridge program between our undergraduate BA degree in English and our graduate MA in English degrees. Selected students can complete up to 9 credits of graduate coursework during their fourth undergraduate year at the University of Akron. Students will then transition into our MA graduate program, pending satisfactory fulfillment of their undergraduate degree and graduate program admission requirements. Selected students have the potential to earn both an undergraduate and graduate degree from the University of Akron in 5 years.

The advantages to the accelerated program include:

- Flexibility during graduate school.
Students can complete graduate classes while fulfilling undergraduate degree requirements.
- Reduced time.
Students start fulfilling graduate school requirements sooner. The ADP Program engages students in graduate level courses before their peers and provides the opportunity to make connections with graduate instructors and other students in the program.
- Cost saving.
Students can save tuition costs by completing up to 9 graduate credit hours at the undergraduate price. These same graduate credits will be applied to their graduate degree at The University of Akron.

Curriculum

The 5-Year Accelerated Degree Pathway (ADP) Program curriculum includes the same coursework offered in the English undergraduate and graduate programs. Check out our handbook here.

Interested students should contact our Assistant Chair, Prof. Lisa Rhoades at rhoades@uakron.edu.

Graduate Programs in English

Admission Requirements

MA Program

To be accepted into the MA program, the English Department requires that applicants have a BA in English, a minor in English, or other suitable course preparation.

To qualify for admission, a student must meet the Graduate School requirement of a minimum overall GPA of 2.5-2.74 or better.

Complete the online application through the Graduate School. Applicants must request that official transcripts of undergraduate and, if applicable, graduate work, be sent to the Graduate School. The Graduate School also requires that you submit a Statement of Purpose via their online portal. Applications should be received at least six weeks prior to registration, which may occur in the fall, spring, or summer terms.

NEOMFA Program

Applicants to the NEOMFA in Creative Writing must be accepted by the Graduate School at The University of Akron or one of the other two participating universities. They must also submit three letters of recommendation, transcripts, and a writing portfolio. The portfolio will be reviewed by an admissions committee of members from all three universities. Applicants using The University of Akron as a “gateway” school for the MFA must additionally satisfy the requirements for the MA program listed above.

For those students admitted to the NEOMFA program, up to nine credits from previously uncompleted graduate degrees may be accepted for transfer credit. Of the nine elective credits, up to six may be from Advisor-approved courses not solely restricted to graduates.

Graduate Teaching Assistantships

Graduate Teaching Assistantships in the Department of English are awarded on a competitive basis to MFA students. Applications for fall appointments will be accepted until February 1.

Students may renew twice, for a total of three years of support.

Along with the application form, applicants for assistantships must submit a clean copy of a writing sample in the form of a typed essay completed in a college course (5-10 pages), a letter of application, and two letters of recommendation. Scores from the Graduate Record Examination are not required. Please email all materials directly to the Graduate Coordinator, Dr. Hillary Nunn, at nunn@uakron.edu.

The letter of application should address:

- why you are interested in the position
- what prepares you for the position both as far as your work history and academic preparation, and
- how your experiences and interests would contribute to the program's academic atmosphere.

The MA in English (330000MAT)

The MA in English provides students with a strong practical and theoretical grounding as they prepare to move forward into careers or into other graduate and professional schools.

Students will learn

1. advanced methods for deeper study of literatures written in English,
2. the fundamentals of Composition as a discipline, and
3. practical writing skills through courses in professional and rhetorical writing.

Courses will place texts within wider cultural and multicultural debates. Through assigned writings, students will articulate informed viewpoints on real-world issues and practice various forms of professional and critical writing, learning to interpret texts in contexts ranging from academic debate to the contemporary classroom to a variety of professional settings.

A minimum of 30 credit hours is required.

Core classes for MA students consist of the following 18 credits at the 600-level:

ENGL 611 Argumentation and Research Writing
ENGL 673 Theories of Composition
ENGL 665 Literary Criticism OR
ENGL 690 Critical Approaches to Literature
One additional 600-level literature course
ENGL 689 Grant Writing OR
ENGL 689 Professional Writing Theory and Practice
ENGL 699 Master's Thesis/Capstone (3 credit hours)

Students must take 12 additional credit hours in English, selecting from classes listed in the Course Bulletin that are offered at either the 500 or 600-level.

Master's Thesis/Capstone

In consultation with a faculty member, students complete either a Capstone Project or a Thesis. In the Capstone Option, students complete a customized final project along with a Portfolio based on the revision and presentation of 3-6 course artifacts, at least one of which is an academic paper. In the Thesis Option, students complete a sustained, publishable 60–100-page scholarly treatment of a subject in Literature or Composition studies.

Application Deadline

Applications to the master's degree program in English are accepted on a rolling basis.

Financial Aid Information

Paying for college is a vital part of the education process! It is important to be informed of the many sources of aid available. Student loans are available to degree-seeking graduate students. Information on student loans can be found through the Office of Student Financial Aid. The Office of Student Financial Aid is located in Simmons Hall.

The Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing (NEOMFA) (330007MFA)

The University of Akron, Cleveland State University, and Kent State University offer jointly the MFA in Creative Writing. This degree provides students with opportunities to develop their skills in writing fiction, poetry, drama, and creative nonfiction. The MFA is the terminal degree. Through extensive practice in workshops and craft and theory courses, students will develop their creative writing abilities while also studying literature and completing a relevant internship.

Admission Requirements

Students must be accepted by the Graduate School at The University of Akron or one of the other two participating universities. Applicants must also submit three letters of recommendation, transcripts, and a writing portfolio. The portfolio will be reviewed by an admissions committee of members from all three universities.

Deadline for full-time applicants seeking funding:

January 15 (fall matriculation)

Deadlines for part-time applicants and other students not seeking funding:

November 15 (spring matriculation)

April 15 (fall matriculation)

The deadline for all assistantships in the Department of English is February 1.

Degree Requirements

Students must complete the following courses among the participating universities:

Writing Workshops	15 credits
Craft and Theory Courses	9 credits
Literature Courses	6 credits
Internship	3 credits
Thesis	6 credits
Electives	9 credits

A total of 48 credit hours is required for the MFA in Creative Writing.

Up to nine credits from previously uncompleted graduate degrees may be accepted for transfer credit in the NEOMFA program. Email David Giffels with questions at dg36@uakron.edu. More information is available at <https://neomfa.org/>.

Student Groups

THE UPSTART CROWS

Upstart Crows is a group of graduate and undergraduate students from many majors who are interested in literature and share a common love for the written word. The Upstart Crows hosts “open mic” poetry nights, travels to see plays performed in Akron and Cleveland, and engages in a variety of other intellectual and social activities throughout the year. New members from all majors are always welcome.

SOCIETY OF AKRON GRADUATE ENGLISH SCHOLARS (SAGES)

SAGES is a student organization open to all English graduate students that focuses on helping English graduate students develop professionally by providing members with tools to help them publish, present, and prepare for the future. SAGES also strives to promote unity among English graduate students by creating events, providing resources, and visiting places that benefit scholars.

Contact Dr. Hillary Nunn (nunn@uakron.edu) for more information.
