Michelle Cappetto, M.A.Ed. and Eman Tadros, M.A. co-authored “Ethics and Rational Suicide in Marriage and Family Therapy,” which has been published in the November/December 2018 edition of Family Therapy Magazine. FTM is the flagship magazine for the American Association for Family and Family Therapy.

In their article, Cappetto and Tadros provide an outline about the ethics of rational suicide for marriage and family therapists, and summarized therapeutic end-of-life services that MFTs can consider as they support families of terminally ill patients.

“Theyir work on this article represents the MFT program and the School of Counseling well,” says Dr. Rikki A. Patton, an associate professor and program director/coordinator for the Marriage and Family Counseling/Therapy Doctoral Track.
