Staff law clerkship combine the intellectual rigor of chambers clerkship with the benefit of working closely with all of the judges of the Seventh Circuit, one of the most highly respected appeals courts in the country, on all phases of appellate litigation. Like traditional chambers clerks, the staff law clerks at the seventh Circuit perform legal research, prepare bench memoranda, and draft merits disposition on a board spectrum of cases subject to oral argument at the court, including some of the most controversial. In addition to receiving the type of work typical of chambers clerkship, staff law, clerks also enjoy other work benefits not available to chambers clerks. They work with all of the judges of the court, rather than just with a single judge. The office hires recent law school graduates from the nation's top law schools and together they work collaboratively with more experienced supervisory attorneys. Applicants must have excellent credentials and possess superior analytical, research, and writing skills. Law review or moot court experience is preferred.

“Lawyers: Why We Are Different and Why We Are the Same”

THE ALUMNI CAREER CONNECTION

Presented by The University of Akron School of Law Career Planning & Placement Office

Lawyers are more than ever interested in their ethical obligations, as malpractice law suits and government enforcement actions — both based on the Rules of Professional Conduct — are on the increase. To what extent do the ethics rules make lawyers different than other professionals? And, to what extent are lawyers like so many others, who rationalize their shortcomings and ethics violations? Finally, what can courts and law firms do to create incentives for lawyers to follow the rules that already exist. One hour of free CLE will be offered.

Professor Ronald Rotunda is a prolific scholar and internationally renowned authority in two fields, Professional Responsibility and Constitutional Law. His treatises, books and articles are widely cited in both fields. He is a frequent national and international speaker about professional responsibility. Professor Rotunda is also a leading figure in the profession. For example, he is a longstanding member of the ABA Center for Professional Responsibility Publications Board and has served on its Professional Discipline Committee. Professor Rotunda helped to write the first Cambodian democratic constitution as Law Advisor to its Supreme National Council and has assisted other democracies in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union in drafting constitutions and judicial codes. In addition, he helped draft the first set of Rules of Ethics for lawyers in the Czech Republic and, more recently, served as Special Counsel of the Department of Defense. For Professor Rotunda's complete bio, visit here.

The event is offered with support from Joseph G. and Sally A. Miller Family Foundation. Additional support offered by the Akron Law Chapter of Phi Delta Phi
