Washington, DC – Graduate Teaching Fellowship – Georgetown University Law Center's Domestic Violence Clinic

AkronLawJobs No. 7576 Overview: Seeking an attorney to serve as a clinical teaching fellow and supervising attorney each year, for a two-year term. Start date is in early July 2017 and the fellowship terminates in June 2019.

Duties: Fellows have several areas of responsibility, including: representing victims of family abuse in civil protection order (CPO) cases; designing and teaching Clinic seminar classes; and supervising third-year law students in their representation of clients. The fellowship experience is designed to develop fellows' skills as clinical law professors and launch them on a career in clinical law teaching; all of the fellows who have sought teaching jobs over the past decade or more have successfully obtained a position. Throughout the program, fellows also receive extensive supervision and training on their litigation skills, providing them with a substantial opportunity to improve as public interest lawyers.

Clinic fellows also pursue a program of graduate study, through a seminar titled Introduction to Clinical Pedagogy, taught collectively by the Georgetown clinical faculty. Fellows also may audit regular law school courses. Finally, during the first year, fellows also are members of the Women's Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program, where they have an opportunity to collaborate with lawyers doing a variety of women's rights legal work in Washington, D.C.

Qualifications: JD and a member of the bar in Washington, D.C. Those fellows who are not members of the D.C. Bar must apply for admission by waiver upon accepting the fellowship offer. The Clinic PREFERS, but does not REQUIRE, applicants who have a background in family law, domestic violence, or poverty law and who have some trial practice experience. Fellows must have excellent oral and written advocacy skills, and must be admitted to a Bar prior to being offered a position in the program.

How to apply: PLEASE READ CAREFULLY – there are several steps for this application: Please complete an application at HERE and submit it both to the Domestic Violence Clinic, c/o Briana Hauser (dvclinic@law.georgetown.edu) and to the Women's Law and Public Policy Fellowship Program (wlpfp@law.georgetown.edu). Please be sure to indicate your interest in the Domestic Violence Clinic on your application.

Deadline: November 4, 2016

Boston, MA – Copyright and Licensing Associate – Free Software Foundation

AkronLawJobs No. 7637 Overview: Seeking a motivated and talented Boston-based individual to be our full-time Copyright and Licensing Associate.

Description: The position works as part of the licensing and compliance team to protect and promote the use of freely licensed works of software and documentation. For over 20 years the FSF's Licensing and Compliance Lab has been the preeminent community resource for information about free licensing. From enforcement of the GNU General Public License, to certifying software and devices as fully free, to the writing and distribution of licensing-related educational materials, the team does work vital for the free software movement.

Responsibilities may include: Diligent and careful filing, archiving, and recording of all the FSF's copyright assignment data (both electronic and paper); Daily correspondence with GNU and other free software developers from around the world; Reviewing hardware devices for our Respects Your Freedom certification program; Investigating violations of free licenses on FSF-copyrighted works; Public speaking as an FSF representative; Writing articles and materials on licensing-related issues and news; Helping to organize and facilitate educational licensing events both online and in-person; Working with volunteers and mentoring interns; and Pitching in to help with organization-wide projects like our major fundraising activities and the annual LibrePlanet conference.

Qualifications: Must be a strong writer who is familiar with free software copyright licenses, and understands the basics of how software is written, compiled, and distributed. Ideal candidate will have experience with administrative tasks and record keeping. Neither a legal nor computer science education is required, but both would be a plus. Being multilingual will be an advantage as FSF works globally and seeks to have our materials distributed in as many languages as possible.

To see salary and benefits see ALJ 7637 on Symplicity.

How to apply: Subject line MUST READ "Copyright and Licensing Associate". Send your resume, cover letter, and published writing sample. All materials must be in a free format. Email submissions that do not follow these instructions will probably be overlooked. No phone calls, please.

Deadline: September 18, 2016 by 17:00 EDT

New York Pro Bono Bar Admission Requirement: The New York Court of Appeals has recently adopted a new rule affecting applicants for bar admission in New York. In his Law Day address in May, 2012, Chief Judge Jonathan Lippman emphasized the need for additional resources to help ease the serious lack of legal services for those unable to pay for legal representation. Thousands of litigants appear pro se each year in New York courts, placing these litigants at a severe disadvantage in the legal system and detrimentally affects the administration of justice. One of Chief Judge Lippman's proposals for addressing this gap in access to justice is directed at encouraging pro bono activities, both by law students and the practicing bar. To improve the assistance available to unrepresented litigants and to ease the burden on legal services providers, Judge Lippman has spearheaded a new initiative that will require applicants for admission to the New York bar to demonstrate that they have performed 50 hours of qualifying pro bono work. Qualifying pro bono work must be law-related and conducted under the supervision of a law school faculty member, an attorney or a judge. The new rule (22 NYCRR 520.16) will take effect on January 1, 2015 so the graduates of the class of 2013 who seek bar admission in New York before the effective date will not need to comply with the new requirement. However, first- and second-year law students interested in practicing law in New York should begin acquiring their pro bono hours since those students will most likely apply for bar admission after the rule takes effect. The 50 hours of pro bono work is not a pre-requisite for qualifying to take the New York bar examination, but the 50 hours of qualifying service must be completed before application for admission to the New York bar. The rule aims to instill in law students a greater appreciation of the fundamental responsibility of the legal profession to provide service to others, along with exposing law students to real-life legal issues. It is our hope that this rule will foster future members of the practicing bar who recognize the benefits of volunteering.
