Apply for the BAKOTA 2015 NSF-REU Field School

- Learn osteology
- Engage in original research
- Participate in a field trip program to research laboratories, museum collections, and libraries
- Interact with top scholars in the field of anthropology
- Receive a stipend for housing and travel to/from Hungary
  - Receive $500/week stipend

For more info:
- www.bakota.net
- www.facebook.com/BAKOTA
- Or contact: Dr. Julia Giblin (julia.giblin@quinnipiac.edu)

TRAVEL to Hungary; visit regional museums and archaeological sites

LEARN field and lab techniques & conduct original research

JOIN a multicultural research team & receive mentorship from top scholars in the field of anthropology

DEVELOP skills for presenting and publishing original research & pave the way for future career options

Ten undergraduate students will be selected and provided with housing, food, travel to/from Hungary, and $500/week stipend (for 6 weeks) as part of this National Science Foundation Research Experience for Undergraduates (REU) sites project. Project dates: July 3 - August 14.

Info and Application:
http://bakota.net

Application deadline:
March 27 2015

Questions should be directed to Dr. Julia Giblin, Quinnipiac University, julia.giblin@quinnipiac.edu

Project Directors:
Paul Duffy, Ph.D., American co-director
Julia Giblin, Ph.D., American co-director
Györgyi Parditka, M.A., Hungarian co-director
László Paja, Ph.D., Hungarian co-director