Teaching with Primary Sources
A Professional Development Opportunity for University of Akron Social Studies Students

June 21 & 22 - 10:00am-2:30pm
Stan Hywet Hall & Gardens

This summer, Stan Hywet Hall & Gardens is offering inservice and preservice teachers a paid professional development opportunity that will connect them with resources and tools available at the Library of Congress. Participants will learn to integrate both national and local resources using inquiry and community-based strategies in the creation of lessons to compliment Stan Hywet educational programs.

$100.00 stipend available for those that complete the entire workshop!

- Attend both workshop sessions
- Develop and submit lesson “stem” and summary
- Implement lesson in the classroom in collaboration with an inservice teacher (Fall, 2016)
- Participate in a "virtual" session in November, 2016 (date TBD)
- Participate in evaluative activities (through project term)

Space is limited to 15 students
